(b) if so, the details thereof and quantum of total requirement of milk daily, State-wise; and

(c) what steps are being taken to meet out the shortage of production of milk in comparison to its consumption?

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF AGRICULTURE (SHRI HUKUMDEO NARAYAN YADAV): (a) and (b) All India and state-wise total milk production is being estimated under the Centrally Sponsored Scheme "Integrated Sample Surveys for Estimation of Major Livestock Products", based on household sample surveys, implemented by all states and UTs.

†Original notice of the question was received in Hindi.

There is no separate accounting for Government and non-Government sector production.

Estimates of total requirement of milk daily are not available.

(c) During past five year plans, several measures have been initiated by the Government to increase the productivity of livestock, which has resulted in significant increase in the milk production. The thrust of the Government policies and programmes is concentrated on control of animal diseases, creation of disease free zones, scientific management and upgradation of genetic resources, increasing availability of nutritious feed and fodder. As a result, the per capita availability of milk has increased from 194 g per day in 1994-95 to 226 g per day during 2001-02.
